PARTNERSHIPS FOR THE GOALS

University as a body collaborate with NGOs to tackle the SDG's

The NSS unit, the School of Agriculture, the Eco Club and the Women's Cell each work with NGOs on the SDG themes closest to their own work: environmental conservation, sustainable agriculture, gender equality, health and education.

NSS works with local civil-society and community organizations during village camps, the School of Agriculture works with agricultural NGOs and extension bodies active in Gujarat's natural farming movement, and the Women's Cell works with regional women's rights and gender-equality NGOs on sensitization and awareness programmes.

Where a relationship is ongoing and not one-off, it is put on paper through an MoU or a similar arrangement, and joint activities such as training, outreach events and data collection are then reported to the IQAC, which keeps a partnership log.

The NGO partnership MoUs or collaboration letters, the joint-activity records and photographs, and the IQAC partnership log are attached.
