University as a body have women's mentoring schemes, in which at least 10% of female students participate

Year 2024-25

SDG-5

GENDER EQUALITY

University as a body have women's mentoring schemes, in which at least 10% of female students participate

The Women's Cell and the faculty advising system of each School run the mentoring scheme for women students. Interested women students are paired with faculty members, alumnae or senior women students as mentors, and pairing is done at School level at the start of each academic year. Participation is open to women students of every School and is promoted at induction and through School communication.

Group and one-to-one sessions are held through the year on academic planning, career guidance and life on campus, and the Training and Placement Cell adds career mentoring for final-year women students. Each School sends its participation data to the Women's Cell, and the IQAC checks the number of participants against the University's total women enrolment to confirm that at least 10% take part.

The mentoring records with the participant list are attached.
